

You are invited to an
Interfaith Worship Service: An End to Torture of the Divine Image

Thursday, April 8, 5:30 - 6:15 pm
Goodson Chapel, Duke Divinity School, Duke University

The service will attune us to the cries of the tortured as they rise to the Holy One by means of Divinity's infinite names, some of which we learn from one another when we gather together in shared prayer. The service is the prelude to a major conference on creating accountability for North Carolina's involvement in "extraordinary rendition", which is the transport of prisoners for torture.

Rev. Stacy Grove, M. Div., HeartSpace Spiritual Resources, will provide brief, meditative compositions on the flute or singing bowls before and between worship leaders.

Order of Service

Centering, meditative musical introduction

Rachael H. Wooten, Ph.D., meditation teacher, Tibetan Buddhist tradition; psychologist; Jungian analyst

Musical interlude

Imam Abdullah T. Antepi, Muslim Chaplain, Duke University

Musical interlude

The Rev. Dr. P. Joseph Ward, West Raleigh Presbyterian Church

Musical interlude

Rabbi Raachel Nathan Jurovics, Ph.D., Spiritual Director

Closing music, calling us to awaken and act

After the service, we encourage participants to attend the free public talk, "The Unresolved Legacy of Guantánamo"* by Scott Horton Contributing Editor of Harper's Magazine and author of the blog "No Comment", expert on international law and extraordinary rendition, and lecturer at Columbia Law School.
7:30 pm, Love Auditorium, Duke University

* Keynote address of the conference "Weaving a Net of Accountability: Taking on Extraordinary Rendition at the State and Regional Level."

For more information, <http://accountabilityfortorturenc.org> or call 919-637-7678.